HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—"It all seems like a hundred years ago, instead of just a little over a week."

Thus spoke 58-year-old David Fellin on Wednesday, going back for the first time to the nearby Shepton coal mine site where he and Henry Throne, 28, were rescued on Aug. 27 from two weeks entombment.

In what for a hard-bitten man of Fellin's stamp was a rush of emotion, Fellin quickly added: "I'm just sorry Lou can't be here."

He was speaking of Louis Bova, 54, the third man caught in the Aug. 13 cave-in more than 300 feet underground. Bova was trapped in a separate burrow, parted from the other two by a mass of debris.

Morse Calls Wallace A 'Punk'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., in a Senate speech Wednesday described Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace as a "punk."

In answer, the governor said: "I'd rather be a punk than a big mustachioed pink like him."

In a brief speech in Washington dealing with Wallace's efforts to prevent integration of Alabama schools, Morse said the governor "is a disgrace to the great office he holds." The senator said that in his part of the country Wallace could be described by "the slang word—punk."

White Integrates Negro School

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Yvonne Fitts, 26, a white mother who says she is a firm believer in racial integration, entered her 6-year-old son in an all-Negro school Wednesday despite telephone threats and vandalism to her home.

The boy, Steven, spent a relatively quiet day in the second grade of McAlmont Elementary School. Mrs. Fitts said he would remain there unless there was trouble or he wanted to leave.

She said telephone callers, mostly women, berated her. She quoted one as saying "You're going to wind up just like Evers." Medgar W. Evers, a field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was shot to death in front of his home at Jackson, Miss.

'Sell Pennsylvania' Committee Forms

HARRISBURG (AP)—A task force of 100,000 Pennsylvanians to promote and to preach the industrial and economic advantages of their home state was formed by Gov. Scranton on Wednesday.

"Too often the true facts about conditions within Pennsylvania are not well known in other parts of the country," said the Governor.

Scranton had promised during his election campaign last fall to establish the committee to stimulate economic growth by spreading the word of Pennsylvania's potential throughout the nation.

Named chairman of the unique group, called the Committee of 100,000 Pennsylvanians for the Promotion of the Economic Growth, was Frank L. Magee, Pittsburgh industrialist.

Scranton said a co-chairman from eastern Pennsylvania would be named later.

Magee said the first job would be to sell the committee to Pennsylvanians, adding:

"We must make Pennsylvanians realize our own climate and resources."

Worst Enemy
Pennsylvanians have been the state's own "worst enemy," said Magee.

"We ought to be first in the nation industrially, but we have sold ourselves down the river by not promoting our advantages."

Scranton, in announcing the committee, issued an open invitation to all Pennsylvanians interested in advancing their state.

"I'd like to see more than 100,000 join us," he added. The Governor said the promotion would be carried out in various ways, with the 100,000 persons to be working ambassadors of good will for Pennsylvania's economy. He said telephone calls

Southern Emotions Mixed

EDITOR'S NOTE—Reiman Morin, who twice has won the Pulitzer Prize, has covered racial outbreaks at Little Rock, Oxford, Birmingham and other places over a period of years. Here he takes another look at Birmingham as it reaches a new turning point.

By REIMAN MORIN
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Violence and restraint, sanity and hysteria, anger and acceptance—they walked hand in hand in Birmingham when an elementary public school, the first in Alabama history, was integrated.

It was a city of astonishing contrasts.

About 100 segregationists demonstrated and scuffled twice with police. Several hundred other persons gathered near each of the three schools scheduled to be integrated, but merely looked and shouted occasionally.

The other 367,000 residents of the city went quietly about their business.

This, in an industrial community, fiercely segregationist, and edgy since last May from the threat of racial troubles? The contrasts were hard to believe, even when you saw them at close range.

They reflect what appears to be the main pattern of feeling by the white residents of Birmingham.

Nobody Wants It

Virtually nobody wants to see the schools integrated, but—Two West End High School girls huddle in a telephone booth when rain begins to fall. Ask them how they feel about the prospect of having Negroes in the school. "I hate the idea," says one, wrinkling her freckled nose. "But that's better than not going to school at all."

The answers of those you question are unanimous—they don't like it, but they want to go to school.

Here is a colloquy between George Seibels, a city councilman who has been critical of Gov. George C. Wallace, and some segregationists:

Segregationists: "Do you kids go to school with niggers?"

Seibels: "No, they don't and I hope they won't have to."

Segregationist: "But you don't give a damn if ours do."

Seibels: "You're wrong about that. I'm a segregationist. But I'm for law and order and I want the schools of this city to stay open."

As he turns to leave, someone says, "Nigger lover." Seibels' face flushes but he does not reply.

Similarly, the Birmingham police, in the face of provocation that rises steadily through the morning, are restrained, courteous and efficient.

In front of Graymont Grammar School, Capt. George Wall suggests that the chanting pickets send one of their number forward to talk with him. Their reply: "We're going to stay here until they close the schools."

There is a scuffle. In about 10 minutes, the police have it in hand.

A sharper one breaks out near Ramsay High. The same group of people are doing the demonstrating.

One is a dark-haired man with a sharp nose, and wide, burning eyes. At all three schools, he has been the most vehement shouter. Now his voice is hoarse. His features are contorted. He appears to have worked himself into a frenzy.

The mood is uglier now. The man is writhing in a kind of Indian dance as he yells, directly into the face of Capt. Jack Warren: "We're going to fight. We'll be here tomorrow morning and every morning until they get the niggers out! We're going to start a civil war!"

Eight More Days To Register

The deadline for registering to vote in the Nov. 5 municipal election is Monday, Sept. 16.

You must be 21, a citizen of the United States for one month, a resident of Pennsylvania one year, a resident of your election district 60 days.

Register today at the Monroe County, Pike County, or Northampton County courthouses. There are only eight more days.

'Vote Yes Committee'

New Group To Promote Constitution Convention

HARRISBURG (AP)—A multi-pronged campaign to win voter approval of a constitutional convention referendum in November was launched here Wednesday.

Directing the campaign will be a "Vote Yes Committee" representing those governmental, political, and civic interests in the state which favor calling a convention next year to rewrite the state's 89-year-old basic law.

Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer and Internal Affairs Secretary Genevieve Blatt will serve as co-chairmen of the committee.

Otis B. Morse, Democratic state chairman; Craig Truax, his Republican counterpart; Milton J. Shapp, Philadelphia industrialist, and David O. Maxwell, a Philadelphia attorney, will serve as vice chairmen.

Shapp In Forefront

Shapp and Maxwell are the chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Committee for State Constitutional Revision, a non-partisan citizens' group which has been at the forefront of efforts to obtain a new constitution in the commonwealth.

Wednesday, the civic committee voted to merge with the governor's committee for a new constitution to form the "Vote Yes Committee."

Shafer, addressing a statewide rally of some 75 convention proponents, explained the logic behind the merger.

"The Vote Yes Committee is requesting the support of your group in the capacity of a volunteer arm of our over-all statewide organization," he said. "We sincerely believe that success on Nov. 5 depends on this concentrated effort from one statewide organization."

Samuel Hinkle, president of Hershey Chocolate Corp., will serve as treasurer of the new committee, Shafer said.

Turning to the point of constitutional revision, Shafer said: "What we are seeking is the approval of the electorate for the calling of a convention. We believe that this generation of Pennsylvanians...should have an opportunity to devise a basic charter equal to the exigencies of our times."

New Ode Needed

Shapp told the proponents gathered in the chamber of the State House of Representatives that the revision drive was not advocating change for the sake of change.

"We believe," he continued, "that Pennsylvania needs a new constitution because it will save millions of dollars in taxes, because it can give Pennsylvania citizens far more efficient and effective state and local government, because it will free our economy from its self-imposed prison and pave the way for more jobs, better schools, better communities, and a far more abundant life for our people."

Miss Blatt cautioned that the road to passage would prove difficult if the committee can not "mount and carry out a vigorous, effective program of education and persuasion," adding:

"...We must have a majority of 'yes' votes if we are going to have state and local government in Pennsylvania that is modern, streamlined, up-to-date and workable."

Nov. 5 Ballot

The 1963 general assembly voted this year to place the convention question on the November ballot.

If approved 150 convention delegates would be elected at the April primary next year.

The convention would convene next July 1 and must conclude its work by Jan. 15, 1965.

The voters would give final approval or disapproval to the new basic law at the November election, 1965.

Good leadership unfailingly recognizes that man is the key to success or failure."

The Joint Chiefs of Staff, of which Anderson was a member when he was chief of naval operations, never should become "a rubber stamp to the secretary of defense in implementing decisions or carrying out orders," he said, nor should its functions be taken over by segments of the secretary's office.

Anderson, whose testimony before congressional committees and expressions of opinion conflicted with Pentagon policy, was not reappointed when his first term as chief of naval operations ended. But President Kennedy picked him for ambassador to Portugal.

Anderson spoke freely of Pentagon affairs and the relations of civilian and military leaders in a speech to the National Press Club.

He said in the 15 years of Defense Department unification "the list of achievements is long and impressive." But he also said "there are some tendencies which give me great concern, a concern shared by many in uniform today and by many who have previously served their country in military and civilian positions."

"This dilemma is not so insoluble as it may seem," Chuong said in an interview Wednesday.

He recalled that Diem himself had overcome formidable opposition when he came to power in 1954 because he then had the support of the Vietnamese people.

"Now, after nine years of the present unjust and inefficient regime, what all Vietnamese crave for is a complete change of the government and the regime," Chuong said.

"The present dilemma can be solved by a coalition of able men of goodwill, who would firmly stand for national union and reconciliation, justice for all and more efficiency in government."

Vietnamese Asks New Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tran Van Chuong, South Viet Nam's former ambassador to the United States says no amount of foreign aid can now carry President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime to victory.

He called for a new government run by a coalition of men of goodwill.

Chuong, who resigned Aug. 22 in protest over the Vietnamese crackdown on Buddhist monks and nuns, said the Diem government has irreparably lost the support of its people.

"But no amount of pressure can force it to step down," he said, and a halt in U.S. aid would lose the country to the Communists.

First Negroes Enroll In Grade Schools

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—An explosion blasted the home of Negro leader Arthur Shores Wednesday night, hours after two Negroes enrolled at a white school. Police put all their units on alert after a rock-throwing crowd began to form.

The explosion knocked out windows in the north end of the Shores home, still under repairs from a blast there two weeks ago.

Almost immediately, several hundred Negro spectators gathered in the area—some what as they did in the earlier blast when they taunted police and threw rocks at them for three hours.

Officers using the police radio urged that riot guns be sent to the area near Shores' home.

"Bring as many men as you can get out here close to Shores' house," said one officer.

There were unverified reports of crowds forming in other areas, but there was no immediate confirmation. They city already was edgy from its current school integration situation and from racial disturbances over the past several days.

Shores, his wife and his 17-year-old daughter were home at the time of the explosion but were reported not hurt. Nor was anyone injured in the earlier blast, which police said was set.

His home is near Graymont Elementary School, where the two Negro students were enrolled earlier in the day.

Shores himself had been active in the school desegregation attempts. He also was the attorney for Jimmy Hood, the Negro student who enrolled at the University of Alabama last June despite the opposition of Gov. George Wallace.

Bill Hudson, an Associated Press photographer at the scene near the Shores' home, reported shots were being fired in the area and rocks thrown at cars along the streets.

Meantime, another call went out on the police radio, saying a Negro had been shot and a policeman injured by glass in his eye. This report was unverified but came from a police car at the scene.

Another report broadcast over the police radio said a supermarket was being damaged by a crowd.

At least two ambulances were sent to the scene.

Police fired into the air in an effort to break up the crowds storming through the area.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Six private citizens backed by Gov. George Wallace moved in federal court Wednesday to stop integration at Birmingham public schools, hours after two Negro boys enrolled to start classes with white pupils.

The boys walked through police lines and enrolled without interference from Wallace. They were the first of their race to enter an Alabama white public elementary school. Two Birmingham high schools are scheduled to admit Negroes Thursday.

Jeering disorders erupted outside two of the three schools ordered integrated, but were quelled by alert city police who swiftly called in special riot squads.

In late afternoon, three Birmingham couples sought a federal court injunction to keep the school's segregated. They said integration would disrupt and destroy the educational process in the affected schools.

'Threat Of Violence'

Wallace announced simultaneously that his office was supporting the petitions "because of the violence which has been committed and the threat of violence which presently exists."

He said "the full resources of my office" were used in helping compile the suit.

Roy Cohn Indicted By Grand Jury

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy M. Cohn, the one-time tenacious young anti-Communist investigator for the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, was accused Wednesday of lying and plotting to obstruct justice in a stock fraud probe.

The 36-year-old Cohn, a lawyer, recently has been widely involved in various business ventures.

A federal grand jury charged him and another Manhattan attorney, Murray E. Gottesman, with scheming to stage off indictments against four men in a 1959 inquiry into a United Dye and Chemical Corp. stock swindle.

Later, they allegedly used perjury and pressure to try to thwart the investigation into the handling of the original stock fraud probe.

Both issued denials.

Price-Rigged Stock

In the stock case, the public was bilked of nearly $5 million in price-rigged, unregistered stock sales. At least 15 persons have been convicted or have pleaded guilty in the case.

Some of the convictions came last February after the longest trial in federal court history.

If convicted, Cohn could get a maximum penalty of 40 years in prison and be fined $36,000. Gottesman could get a maximum 15-year sentence and be fined $14,000.

The 10-count indictment against them came after a grand jury had spent more than a year investigating the matter.

Federal Judge Dudley B. Bonal praised the 19-member panel, including two women, for "doing a great job for your country and your government."

Four other men, three of them associated with Cohn's law firm or business operations, were named co-conspirators but not defendants.

Star Investigator

Cohn burst into the public limelight a decade ago as the star interrogator in the televised Army-McCarthy hearings on alleged Communist influence in the Armed Forces.

The hearings resulted in a Senate censure of McCarthy and Cohn resigned afterward as chief counsel to the Senate Investigation subcommittee.

Roy M. Cohn

Dashing and dark-haired, Cohn later plunged into a number of financial and business dealings by which he has built a personal fortune estimated in the millions.

U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau said that Wednesday's indictment resulted from a probe to determine if any wrongdoing was involved in the failure of a 1959 grand jury to indict four men in the stock fraud case.

A 1961 grand jury did indict the four — Samuel S. Garfield, Clare, Mich., and three Denver, Colo., men: Irving Pasternak, Alford Roen and Allen K. Swann. All four later pleaded guilty.

Wednesday's indictment leveled no charges in the stock manipulations themselves.

However, it alleges that Cohn and Gottesman were involved in the scheme to prevent indictments against Garfield, Pasternak, Roen and Swann by the 1959 grand jury—which did not indict them.

As part of the arrangement, Cohn allegedly got Gottesman to get in touch with Morton S. Rosenberg, then chief assistant U.S. attorney for New York's southern district.

State News Roundup

Sheriff Escorts Plant Workers

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Accompanied by four union leaders, Sheriff John Costello of Erie County escorted about 20 non-union workers through the gates of the struck Continental Rubber Co. Wednesday without incident.

More than 300 persons milled about near the entrance of the plant, but outside the area where limited picketing is permitted under a court order.

On Tuesday, 42 persons were arrested in a fist-swinging, rock-throwing scuffle between some 1,000 persons and a large force of police and sheriff's deputies. At least four persons were treated for injuries.

Officials of the striking union, Local 61 of the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, AFL-CIO, said they took the unusual action of aiding non-union workers in order to prevent further violence.

State Revenue Men Get Raise

HARRISBURG (AP)—Five top level employees of the State Revenue Department have received substantial salary increases, effective Aug. 31, the department said Tuesday.

Martin H. Brackbill, the governor's budget secretary, said six persons, including himself, had received pay raises recently as exceptions to Gov. Scranton's general policy of starting new employees at the bottom of their salary grade and raising them gradually.

Brackbill said the exceptions were made in the Revenue Department because the five were receiving less than holdovers.

Brackbill went up from $16,120 to $19,500. A governor's aide said Brackbill's duties had been increased.

Dry Weather Hurts Corn Crop

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania's corn crop, delayed by dry weather, is in jeopardy from possible early frost, the State Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

The service's weekly summary added:

"Along the southern border, some corn is in the dent stage, but elsewhere most of the kernels are no further along than dough consistency. Farmers are fearful of frost because of the heavy damage it could cause to the soft ears."

"Despite recent showers, most sections of the state, except for some northern counties, reported lack of soil moisture. Many fields were too dry to plow."

Conservationist Gets Mines Post

HARRISBURG (AP)—A prominent conservationist from Zelienople was named Wednesday to head the new Bureau of Conservation and Reclamation in the state Mines Department.

James M. Cunningham, 53, was appointed to direct the new land reclamation board, which will administer the new and more strict bituminous strip mine regulations enacted into law by the 1963 General Assembly.

He will be paid $10,432 annually. The appointment is effective immediately.

A number of strip mine operators already have announced opposition to Cunningham despite the fact he previously was a strip miner himself.

Cunningham worked from 1937 to 1956 for the C.N.S. Coal and Clay Co., Zelienople, operated by his late father.

In recent years Cunningham has operated the J. M. Cunningham Enterprises Inc., a firm which purchases and restores old strip-mine areas for recreational uses. It operates a recreational lake in Beaver County.

Committee May Assist Cubans

HARRISBURG (AP)—Public Welfare Secretary Arlin M. Adams said Tuesday that the Governor's Council for Human Services is considering the possibility of appointing a statewide committee to expedite the resettlement of Cuban refugees in Pennsylvania.

Adams, who doubles as council chairman, reported that local programs in Philadelphia, Erie, Harrisburg and Easton were reviewed at a council meeting Tuesday.

Public Works Grant Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Community Facilities Administration has approved a $28,000 accelerated public works grant for construction of a sewer system in Rapho Township, Northumberland County, Pa., Rep. George M. Rhodes, D-Pa., said Tuesday. Total cost of the project is $502,765.

St. Marys Cleaning Up Devastation

ST. MARYS, Pa. (AP)—Many residents of this small Northwest Pennsylvania community were busy Wednesday cleaning up debris left by a destructive tornado.

No official damage figure was available. Estimates run over $1 million.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Harrisburg said Wednesday the violent storm had officially been classified a tornado after an investigation.

The tornado, which concentrated its fury on the outskirts of the community, struck without warning Tuesday, killing livestock, uprooting trees, overturning house trailers and flattening railroad cars.

There were no deaths or serious injuries reported. Several persons were treated for minor injuries but only one was hospitalized.

John Alexander, 37, was reported in satisfactory condition at Andrew Knoll Memorial Hospital with a back injury suffered when his house trailer blew over.

Highways were blocked for several hours immediately after the tornado hit.

Electric, telephone and gas service remained out in some areas today. Spokesmen for the utilities said operations should be back to normal by Friday.

Several house trailers were overturned in a trailer camp. At least one house was knocked off its foundation. Four empty freight cars on a Pennsylvania Railroad siding were knocked down. Several tombstones were flattened.

Fourteen cows were killed on the Henry Foster farm along the St. Marys-Johnsburg Road.

PM Schools Have 1,175 Enrolled

SWIFTWATER — Willis C. Dunlap, supervising principal of Pocono Mountain Joint Schools, announced last night that first day registration in the jointure shows an increase of 76 pupils as compared with the first day of last year.

Total enrollment in the elementary schools is 1,175, or an increase of 40 pupils at this level. Total enrollment in the high school is 881, or an increase of 36 as compared with last year's enrollment.

In Barnett elementary center there are 353 pupils enrolled. Registration figures in the other three elementary centers is as follows: Pocono, 330; Coolbaugh, 302; and Tobyhanna, 188.

Education Crisis 1963—Part Three

Complete Renovation Of Schools Under Way

By G. K. HODENFIELD

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the decade of change in American education.

A complete transformation of the schools is under way. New educational techniques are moving from idea to experiment to standard practice with unprecedented speed.

Educators are beginning to realize that children can learn almost anything at almost any age if taught properly.

A generation ago, algebra and geometry were reserved for high school. Today they are being taught to some second graders.

Home television viewing has had a tremendous impact on education. First graders who watch U.S. astronauts blast off into space aren't content to wait until junior high school for an introduction to general science.

Teachers have known for years that children vary widely in their abilities to learn. Now, with a better public climate for experimentation, they are capitalizing on that knowledge.

The result is that the century-old practice of marching youngsters in lockstep from kindergarten ten through high school just because they are the same age is headed for the academic ashcan.

Instead, many of the nation's schools are adopting the nongraded concept, in which pupils move through their studies as fast or as slow as their individual abilities dictate.

If this is a boon for the brilliant student, it also is a lifesaver for the not-so-bright. Each progresses at his own rate without boredom or frustration.

Another tradition-bound idea that may be completely out of style before the end of this decade is the nine-month school year followed by a three-month vacation.

The only sure thing about luck is that it will change.

Rip Van Winkle Couldn't Sleep with Nagging Backache

Now! You can get the fast relief you need from nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains that often cause restless nights and miserable tired-out feelings. When these discomforts come on with over-exertion or stress and strain—want relief—want it fast! Another disturbance may be mild bladder irritation following wrong food and drink—often setting up a restless uncomfortable feeling. Doan's Pills work fast in 3 separate ways: 1. A speedy pain-relieving action to ease torment of nagging backache, headache, muscular aches and pains. 2. By soothing effect on bladder irritation. 3. By mild diuretic action tending to increase output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Enjoy a good night's sleep and the same happy relief millions have for over 60 years. For convenience, ask for the large size. Get Doan's Pills today!

Last year the University School in Tallahassee, Fla., adopted a revolutionary program which combined an 11-month school year, longer class periods, Saturday and evening classes, and a non-graded program from first grade through high school graduation.

This week in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a similar plan went into effect at Nova School, with 1,500 students in grades 7 through 10.

The decade of change is affecting every phase of education from the shape of the schoolhouse to the length of the class period.

Many of today's new schools provide individual study cubicles. Sliding walls can change a large lecture room to smaller rooms for group discussion.

So rapidly is the educational scene shifting that yesterday's innovation is today's relic.

A case in point is the language laboratory, an array of tape recorders, earphones and phonographs that give students individualized instruction in speaking, hearing and reading a foreign language.

Today the language labs are being criticized as too restricted in usage. What's needed, some educators are saying, is a laboratory for use in teaching speech, music, typing and other subjects as well as foreign languages.

First bathtub in the U.S. was installed in 1842 by Adam Thompson in Cincinnati.

1963-64 Community Chest Goal Set At $112,900

STROUDSBURG—Mobilizing advance forces for the biggest task ever tackled by the Monroe County Community Chest, the 1963-64 United Appeal of the Monroe County Community Chest and Red Cross got under way yesterday as the advanced gift committee met with their chairman, Arlington W. Williams, at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Ralph E. Reppert, campaign chairman, mapped the campaign goal: To raise $112,900, which is $9,414 more than was raised last year, in one campaign for the 13 member agencies. Agency requests have been held to a bare minimum, he pointed out, and to raise the amount needed to supply essential services will require a good selling job.

Arlington W. Williams

To the advanced gift committee, he presented the challenge of raising $79,825, almost 80 per cent of the goal and $7,000 more than was raised by the same group last year.

Arlington Williams, chairman, announced that the committee had on its list the names of 424 persons. To solicit their contributions, the advanced gift committee is being expanded to 72, with a breakfast meeting to be held Wednesday, Sept. 18, at 8 a. m. at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

At this breakfast, the cards of five or six prospects will be given to each solicitor, with reports on their progress to be presented at breakfasts on successive Wednesday, Sept. 25, and Oct. 2.

	$12,900	100.00

Recovery Operation Continues

In the time schedule for the campaign, the Advanced Gifts committee is expected to complete its work by Oct. 7 when a dessert meeting will kick-off the general campaign.

Charged with the responsibility of recruiting the committee of 72, were the members present for the meeting yesterday: Ralph Reppert, Albert Groner, Jesse Pierson, Montgomery F. Crowe, Nelson Westbrook, John Hauser, Frank LaBar, Stuart Pipher, Celeste Rossi, Elmer Chura, the Chest president, Jesse Flory, and the executive secretary, Ethel West.

WIND GAP — Pumping and diving operations at the Penn-Bangor quarry in Wind Gap continued last night in the search for the body of Robert LeMunyon, 16, of Elizabeth, N. J., who drowned in the quarry Sunday, Aug. 18.

Wind Gap Police Chief Leo Reinhart said last night, "We are now in need of additional pumps, ones of greater power than the two six-inch pumps now in operation. We have a ten-inch pump that is inoperative due to the lack of sufficient flexible pipe long enough to reach from the water level to the top of the quarry."

Members of the Telford Diving Unit from Telford, Pa., were at the scene as they have been for more than two weeks and were making dives last night with "hard hat" equipment.

Again the divers faced the same problem of decompression, but one of the divers, who wishes to remain unidentified, said, "If the water could be lowered it would give us more time to search the bottom and less time to worry about decompression. Regardless of the water level we will continue to dive until the body is located."

Camelback Ski Facility Twelve Years In Planning

STROUDSBURG — "The dream of a major regional ski facility which began 12 years ago will become a reality when Camelback Ski Corp. is officially dedicated on Dec. 14, Ken Nicoll, resident manager of Camelback told the Kiwanis Club at the luncheon meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday.

"Actual work was started in April of this year when trails were cut with power saws and stumps and rocks were buried by bulldozers," he said.

Camelback, situated along the slope of Big Pocono near Tannersville, will consist of 10 ski trails and areas.

Nicoll said, "The Swiss styled main lodge, now under construction, will include a cafeteria which will seat 200 people, a completely equipped ski shop offering rentals, repairs, the latest in ski fashions and equipment, a lounge area and a first aid room."

It was explained that the facility will have a 3000-foot double chair lift which will service trails for experts and will handle 1,200 skiers per hour; a 2000-foot T bar lift will service trails used by intermediates which will lift 1,000 people per hour; and a 700-foot J bar for the novices trails capable of handling 600 skiers per hour.

Modern snow making equipment is being installed to insure adequate snow coverage on all the trails.

About 15 local people have been hired to work on this project and between 30 and 40 people will be employed to maintain the facility throughout the skiing season.

It was announced that Walter Foeger, Camelback's managing director, founder of the famous Natur-Tipik method of ski instruction and author of "Skiing for Beginners", will supervise a ski school.

Nicoll said that $5,000 brochures have been distributed to approximately 30 regional hotels and resorts who will participate in a vacation package plan arrangement with Camelback.

A Nathan Smith was the program chairman.

The monthly board of directors meeting was held prior to the regular membership meeting.

Guests attending the meeting were Art McNeil of the Easton Suburban Club, R. M. Hoot, Donald Dimmick and Alex Bensinger.

Stroudsburg Woman Hurt In Crash On E. Brown St.

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Keturah S. Raub, 64, of 786 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, was admitted to the General Hospital of Monroe County yesterday at 3:20 p. m. following a two-car crash at the intersection of E. Brown and Prospect Sts., in East Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Raub and the other driver, Mrs. Richard P. Spragle, 62, of Stroudsburg, RD 2, were taken to the hospital. Mrs. Spragle was treated and released.

A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Raub received a fractured knee cap, contusions and abrasions. Her condition is good.

Police said Mrs. Raub was traveling west on E. Brown St. and failed to stop at the stop sign at Prospect St. Mrs. Spragle was traveling north on Prospect St.

Following the impact, the Raub car continued on 600 feet ripping out a fence in the front yard of the Schuman Smith home at 125 E. Brown St., knocked down a stone corner post on the property of Michael Zmenak, of 113 E. Brown St., and came to rest after hitting a maple tree on the property of M. F. Eisenhart of 105 E. Brown St.

Damage is estimated by police at $400 to the Spragle car and the Raub vehicle a total loss. They made no estimate on property damage.

Police will continue the investigation today.

Supt. Litts Repeats Warning On School Bible Reading

STROUDSBURG — John C. Litts, county superintendent of schools, yesterday repeated the Pennsylvania attorney general's legal opinion on the U. S. Supreme Court decision banning recitation of the Lord's Prayer and Bible reading in public schools.

Litts' comments came as Monroe County public schools started the new school year amid reports that the banned exercises were continuing in some classes in Eldred Township Elementary School.

The reports were quickly denied by Mrs. Emma K. Smith, principal of the Eldred School. "There was no Bible reading in any of the classes in Eldred Township Elementary School," Mrs. Smith told The Daily Record.

Franklin Taylor, president of the Eldred Township School Board, said he had instructed Mrs. Smith to comply with the Supreme Court ruling.

"I told her that we as a board had not taken any definite action on the matter, but that we expected to at our next meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 18. I instructed her not to read the Bible, and said that we would go along with the Supreme Court ruling," Taylor said.

In a discussion with Mrs. Smith, Litts read pertinent passages of the official Pennsylvania position on the Supreme Court ruling.

The position, written by Walter E. Alessandrini, state attorney general, states in part: "The ruling of the Supreme Court prohibits Bible reading in the public schools as a devotional exercise no matter who the sponsoring or supervising agent or agency . . .

"It makes no legal difference that Bible reading as a devotional exercise is permitted rather than required. The mere permission constitutes tacit approval and violates the concept of neutrality as defined by the Supreme Court . . .

Non-Religious Practices
"The following non-religious practices may be substituted lawfully in the public schools in place of corporate prayer and Bible reading without offending the First Amendment:

"Daily recitation of the pledge of allegiance; a period of silent meditation; readings from great literature, messages and speeches of great Americans and from other documents of our heritage. "Presentation of inspirational music, poetry and art; the objective study about religion as a cultural force; objective study of comparative religion or the history of religion; and Bible study for literary and historic qualities as part of a secular program of education."

Litts himself said he was not sympathetic with the Supreme Court ruling, but added that it is now the law of the land and must be followed.

ESSC Opens Registrations; Anticipate 500 Freshmen

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College opened the 1963-1964 academic year with freshman registration yesterday on the college campus. Approximately five hundred freshmen were expected to register.

New Faculty Members Welcomed

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, welcomed fifteen new members to the ESSC professional staff at a general faculty meeting held last Tuesday morning in the college auditorium.

New staff members introduced to the faculty by Dr. Koehler included Helen C. Albright, Instructor of Health and Physical Education; Billy D. Hauserman, Professor of Education; Joseph B. Kernaghan, Associate Professor of Education; Alys S. Morton, Assistant Professor of Education; Herbert Spitz, Assistant Professor of Social Studies; Jay Vogelbaum, Associate Professor of English; Ronald L. McBride, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; Adelaide B. Wolfe, Instructor of Education; William J. Lewis, part time Instructor of Health and Physical Education; Kathleen R. Snyder, Instructor of Education; Charles W. McNett, Assistant Professor of Anthropology; William G. Hope, Assistant Professor of French; Kenneth O. Sisson, Assistant Professor of Health and Physical Education; Raymond Carver, Assistant Professor of Speech; and Leonard Zettlemoyer, Assistant Professor of Education.

The monthly board of directors meeting was held prior to the regular membership meeting.

Guests attending the meeting were Art McNeil of the Easton Suburban Club, R. M. Hoot, Donald Dimmick and Alex Bensinger.

Activities for the week will include a "Get-Acquainted Tour" sponsored by the Women's Executive Council and a "Freshman Mixer" party sponsored by the Recreation Council on Wednesday evening. These functions are closed affairs limited to the students and faculty of ESSC.

A freshman assembly will be held Thursday afternoon in the college auditorium. At this time, President LeRoy J. Koehler will officially welcome the new students to the academic and social facilities of East Stroudsburg State College.

The Quiet Integration

Senator Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat known for his outspoken opinions, yesterday described Gov. George Wallace of Alabama as a "punk" and "a disgrace."

He was referring to Gov. Wallace's attempts to block court-ordered integration of Alabama's grade and high schools.

Although they didn't say it quite so plainly, some of Gov. Wallace's own Alabama residents seemed to think he was carrying the fight against school integration a bit too far.

The two daily newspapers in Birmingham said editorially that Gov. Wallace should not be allowed to seize or close newly integrated schools. They argued that although Alabama whites don't want integration it is futile to fight federal court orders.

In Tuskegee, the school board which wanted to open classes under a federal court order for integration was mad at the Alabama governor for sending state troopers to block Negroes and whites trying to go to school.

Throughout Alabama it appeared that most citizens are resigned to obeying the law of the land and the orders of federal courts rather than fighting integration in the streets.

Across the south and the nation, however, the major integration story was the number of schools that accepted Negro students for the first time without riot or protest.

They are not so much in the news, but their actions are the best news of this school season.

Volunteer Rescuers Thanked

We commend the volunteer workers who have served at the Penn-Bangor Quarry in Wind Gap in every phase of the search for the body of Robert LeMunyon who drowned in the quarry Sunday, Aug. 18, while scuba diving.

A great number of man hours have been devoted by these volunteer workers. Many of them work an eight-hour shift at their regular jobs and then travel many miles before arriving at the quarry to put in another eight or so hours at night.

The Salvation Army in Pen Argyl and the North Penn Goodwill Service from Souderton have spent hours and days at the scene feeding volunteer workers. All this is free to the workers and is greatly appreciated by them.

A diving team from the U. S. Navy station in New London, Conn., spent several days searching the depth of the quarry with a television camera.

Diving units from Telford, Pa., and Milford, N. J., have been on the spot and will return there tonight to continue diving for the body.

The many Civil Defense personnel from Wind Gap, Bangor, Pen Argyl, Plainfield Township, Bushkill Township, and Lower Mount Bethel Township are there working as auxiliary police and road guards, operating the pumps and other equipment at the scene. They are aiding area police and firemen from many of the surrounding boroughs and townships.

Not to be forgotten is the Civil Defense unit from Union, N. J., which was on duty at the disaster site for 48 hours before returning to their home base.

One or more units working here have not been included but they have not been forgotten and will not be forgotten by the family of the dead boy and the others at the scene.

Volunteer workers are born, not made, for theirs is a labor of love. They work for one goal until their services are no longer required and work not for glory as an individual or a team, but as a team pulling together to do a job.

This they have done and will continue to do until the body of Robert LeMunyon is located, brought to the surface, and returned to the family.

Comment Of The Day

"Pennsylvania needs a new constitution because it will save millions of dollars in taxes, because it can give Pennsylvania's citizens far more efficient and effective state and local government, because it will free our economy from its self-imposed prison and pave the way for more jobs, better schools, better communities, and a far more abundant life for our people."

—Milton J. Shapp, Philadelphia industrialist, commenting on the need for a convention to revise the Pennsylvania constitution. See story, Page 1.

Pentagon Mouse Man

By George Dixon

Washington—This needs to be reported step by step, scream by scream, and squeal by squeal to give you the full rich-bodied flavor of an incident that epitomizes Washington bureaucracy in its most optomical form.

Pat Frank, author of such best sellers as "Mr. Adam," and "Alas Babylon," has taken over as consultant on Civil Defense at the Pentagon on the banks of what possibly should be renamed the Epitomac River. Mr. Frank is as easy to find as any other denizen of the five-sided maze. He is in a room simply designated as 3E341 in E Ring.

The other day he was seated in his allotted portion of the labyrinth, dictating to his secretary Ann Wiesner, when a mouse ran over her foot—although how the mouse found E Ring, much less Room 3E341, is unaccountable. Mr. Frank has been there four months, but I couldn't locate him until a couple of days ago.

Miss Wiesner followed standard operating procedure when the rodent ran over her foot. She put the runner foot and the other foot on a table and screamed madly.

She refused to descend from the table, or even move her screaming, until the mouse was routed out and done to death. Mr. Frank figured it might be sound civil defense policy to humor her because, by this time, she had been joined on the table top by two other secretarial beauties who were spotting Miss Wiesner fifty decibels in screaming.

The distinguished author made many telephonic calls to many Pentagon extensions before he connected with anyone who had any ideas as to how to deal with a mouse. Finally he hooked onto a holdover from the Roosevelt Administration, who suggested: "Why don't you call the Chief Exterminator?"

"Who's that — McNamara?" asked Mr. Frank.

The author had to go through more telephonic channels too numerous to mention before he could even establish that there was an official with the grim reaperish title of Chief Exterminator.

Finally, however, he contacted the GE, who weighed the problem, then said: "I'll send up my Mouse Man."

The Mouse Man arrived with no equipment save a stick with a hook on the end, like a shepherd's crook. He fished out the mouse, and held it lightly pinioned to the floor.

"Kill it. Kill it!" cried the ladies, in the winsome tones of those who used to knit by the guillotine.

"I am not permitted to kill it," stated the Mouse Man.

"Why not?" chorused the ladies.

"Because," replied the Mouse Man, "I once killed a mouse in front of some Pentagon ladies, and one of them fainted. The Department of Defense took the position that having a secretary faint during working hours reduces efficiency."

"Kill this one," pleaded the ladies. "We swear never to tell anyone."

The Mouse Man did the mouse in, and started for the door, leaving the defunct beast on his floor.

"Take him away! Take him away!" howled the ladies.

"I'm not allowed to take him away," said the Mouse Man.

"Why does the Pentagon have a rule against that?" demanded the ladies.

"It may be diseased," explained the Mouse Man. "I'm not allowed to touch it. But, if you'll give me an envelope, I'll put it in that and remove it for you."

Without even a Government requisition, the secretarial lovelies procured him a standard size envelope.

"That is too small," objected the Mouse Man.

Finally the ladies procured one of those huge manilla envelopes in which Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester, "The Voice of the Pentagon," sends out releases about a proliferation of sophisticated weapons escalating into a detente. The Mouse Man departed with it under his arm, saying Pentagonically:

"I hope this irregular procedure does not invoke high echelon repercussions."

'Happy Days' On Capitol Hill

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — "Happy days are here again" most certainly is the tune that these days should be strumming the vocal chords of Pennsylvania taxpayers everywhere — well, theoretically at least.

Scranton Administration aides here on Capitol Hill are so "excited" about the thing they feel the Keystone State's goodly brood of pocket-diggers should be in gay dance with lutes and flutes.

The occasion of course has revolved around the Governor's insistence — with occasional tootling of musical pipes and what-not — that Pennsylvania has a "balanced budget."

But let's look at this thing in a less entrancing light:

To begin with, from all the under-the-cuff innuendo emoting from Capitol Hill you'd think this was the first time in nearly 15 years that a "balanced" budget had been attained.

Now really — the State Constitution mandates that each and every budget be balanced. Thus in theory in every past fiscal period Pennsylvania has had a "balanced" budget, although it usually just wound up that way on paper only.

Something invariably seemed to go wrong however. Revenue estimates not coming up to snuff always has been a favorite excuse for "unbalancing" a budget and bringing about one of those horrible things called a deficit.

Over-expenditure, emergency expenditures and similar breathers have a way of cropping up, throwing off balance the once projected "balanced" budget.

Is the current budget any more "realistic" than previous "balanced" budgets? It is difficult to see how — although admittedly this is an insulting and highly choking thought to the fiscal brains of the current administration who insist they have the answer this time.

They may — somehow — but we prefer to wait until the end of the fiscal year to see just how much better than previously.

The "balanced budget" theme, it will be recalled, was a hot item insofar as the preceding Democratic Lawrence Administration was concerned — ever since it assumed office on that bleak January day back in 1959.

Mr. Lawrence insisted repeatedly that he was going to have a balanced budget (someday) or else.

It doesn't take too much stretching of the memory twig to recall that when Mr. Lawrence assumed the gubernatorial robes (along with his balanced budget theme) in 1959, in his message to lawmakers he asked approval of his financing program which in his own words he said "will end the continuing series of deficits which now trouble our affairs, and will provide the Commonwealth with a sound balance of revenues and expenditures in the years ahead."

But — alas — when Mr. Lawrence presented his budget message to lawmakers in January of 1961 for fiscal 1961-62 and recounted the fiasco of the last "balanced budget" he had this to say:

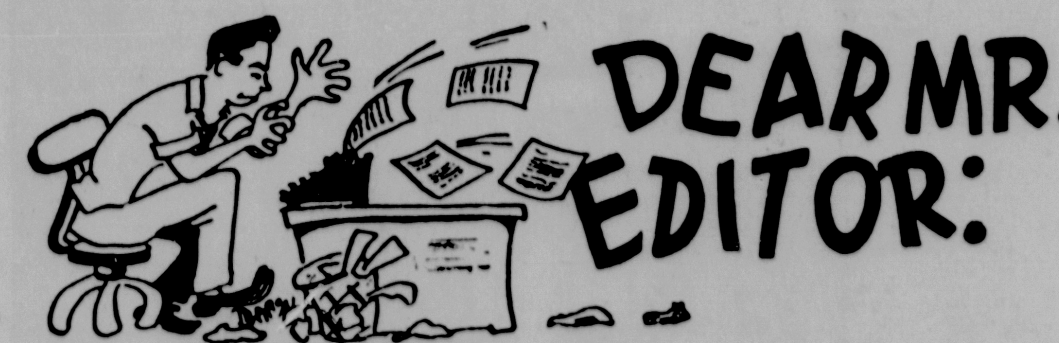

"We would have realized our hope for such a fiscal balance — if our national economy had maintained a level of relatively full employment and normal corporate profits. But, as you must know, our revenues for the 1959-61 biennium will be about $53,000,000 less than we had estimated."

Noble, spirited words indeed. Last fall during the campaign for the governorship Mr. Lawrence harped continually on the point that his administration had not only been able to eliminate the deficit — but also in all probability would end up with a surplus!

The "balanced budget" theme apparently meant little. Republican William W. Scranton won the gubernatorial nod — and lo and behold, a few months after being in office the new Scranton Administration announced a deficit hangover from the Lawrence Administration!

But — things are in order once again. This time the budget has "really" been balanced!

(Personally — we'll wait until the end of the fiscal year to see just how well Pennsylvania taxpayers have been given a "balanced" budget.)

Israel Compared To Arab States

Editor, The Daily Record:

I am sure that the Stroudsburg Rotary Club was greatly reassured to learn from Dr. B. Hammed, Chief of the U.N. section of the Arab States Delegation office, that American-Arab relations are improving.

After all it is a relief to read that we are improving some place. For years now, ever since the end of World War II, we have been dispensing literally billions of good old American dollars all over the globe, without any sizeable improvement of relationships with many of the countries who are receiving our aid.

One might almost be tempted to think that American generosity is being taken for granted and that we are not loved or even liked for giving so much of our money away.

Perhaps we should step-up the funds we Americans are putting into the United Nations funds in support of these 1,200,000 Arab refugees. Why not if it will help to improve the present improvement in American-Arab relations which Dr. Hammed reported?

When in the past people were persecuted, they came to America—to the New World—to take up their lives once again. Though there were people here who had lived in this land for many, many years before these Pilgrims and Pioneers came, still these pioneers created and fashioned our great United States of America into what it is today.

To follow Dr. Hammed's line of reasoning would be tantamount to saying that everyone should go back to the land of his forebears and leave this U.S. of America to the Red Indian who certainly preceded us all as a resident of America. They were here first.

Any Rotarian or anybody who seeks enlightenment can look to the record of what has been accomplished in Israel. Look and learn what has been done since the founding of Israel which first saw the beginning of Zionism.

Look back just at the past 15 years and see the miracles which have come to pass with the regeneration of the Holy Land since Israel's inception as a State. A wilderness has been transformed into a veritable garden of Eden.

Why doesn't Dr. B. Hammed seek education and enlightenment for his people? Israel is and has always been willing to share the benefits she has brought into being. Or is it that the fecked chieftains prefer to keep their people in ignorance?

Maybe they might wake up and demand a better standard of living for the masses and not take orders from the few "Big Wheels" whose oil wells gush so readily and provide them so splendidly.

Look at the record and see if the big Sheiks were ever concerned with improving the lot of their fellow-Arabs.

Their way of life has always been clearly defined—palaces, a fleet of Cadillacs—several hundred wives, travelling the world in the ultimate style and splendor. This is for the mere handful of ruling families—for the people, a bare subsistence.

And as long as there will be funds coming from the U.N. I am sure they will be content to let things go along in this way, while they send their delegates into little towns and cities to talk a lot of "hogwash" about the improved relationship we are supposed to be enjoying.

During World War II when the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem was actively engaged in helping the forces of Rommel, the Nazi Desert Rat, while Israel's men were helping the Allied forces, who was worrying about improving relationships then?

Israel is dedicated to peace. How about the Arab States? Look at the record, then you will make a fair evaluation that will serve the interest of truth in this great democracy of America.

The Allen-Scott Report

Profitable Plan

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington—Foreign countries desirous of being cut in on U.S. aid will find it very useful to study Pakistan's highly successful technique.

It has proved profitable—to the tune of more than $5 billion.

Pakistan's effective formula is relatively simple and direct. It can be succinctly summed up as "treat 'em rough and make 'em like it." For Pakistan, this policy has been an unflinching "open sesame" to U.S. aid coffers.

Although a member of the SEATO alliance, and the recipient of billions in military and economic aid from this country, Pakistan is busily establishing close commercial and military ties with Red China. The latest is an agreement on a civil air line between the two nations.

The Kennedy administration has reacted with characteristic "vigah."

Privately, it is pouring out more juicy economic aid to Pakistan, while publicly the President rushed a personal representative to appeal to President Ayub Khan. What this mission of Undersecretary of State George Ball is accomplishing, if anything, is not known.

The odds are against any favorable results—for the U.S.

For Pakistan, the pay-off already is under way in the form of so-called "sale" of 100,000 tons (approximately 3.5 million bushels) of surplus wheat under Title I of Public Law 480.

Under this provision, Pakistan pays for the grain with its own currency, which the U.S. in turn gives back to Pakistan in grants and loans for projects there. In effect, Title I transactions amount to give-aways. This is the latest of many Pakistan has gotten.

Cost to U.S. taxpayers of this huge wheat shipment is more than $10 million. Of that total, some $2.4 million is for shipping charges.

The grain is being transported on the SS Manhattan, largest tanker in the world. Loaded at a Gulf port, the wheat is destined for the Pakistan port of Chittagong, where Liberty-sized vessels will lighter it ashore.

Uncle Santa Claus—The $5 billion in military and economic aid to Pakistan is only part of the story.

Latest available official figures, including 1962, show Pakistan has received a total of $1.854 billion in economic aid. Of that, $1,062 billion was in grants, $791.5 million in long-term loans. The amount of military aid is classified. It can be definitely stated, however, that it is in excess of $2.5 billion.

In addition to these immense sums, Pakistan also has received well over $1.5 billion in surplus commodities under the various titles of Public Law 480.

Under Title I, between July 1, 1951, and December 31, 1962, Pakistan got surplus commodities that cost U.S. taxpayers $1.497 billion. Included in this amount was $128.8 million for shipping charges. Under Title 2, $48.6 million in surplus commodities was shipped there as "emergency relief." This was given wholly without charge. Under Title 3, another $36 million in three surplus commodities went to "voluntary relief agencies."

That still isn't the last of the massive give-aways to Pakistan.

In addition to the other hand-outs of various kinds, Pakistan has gotten $51 million in long-term loans from the Export-Import Bank, and $61 million in what is labeled as "various other economic programs"—in a report of the Agency for International Development.

The Crackdown—These little-known facts are causing much concern in congressional quarters.

Representative Otto Passman, D-La., chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the foreign aid budget, and long a militant advocate of slashing these funds to the bone, is determined to make the utmost of the Pakistan story to drastically prune the President's demand for $4.5 billion.

Passman's aim is to cut that to $2.4 billion.

In the Senate Wayne Morse, D-Ore., members of the Foreign Relations Committee and long a champion of foreign aid, now is on the warpath against such large-scale spending. He is citing Pakistan as a graphic reason for his significant change of view.

Tried On Children At the Denver Children's Hospital, Dr. C. J. Falliers began a study in a mixed group of children between the ages of 7 and 16, with a specialized kind of hormone in an effort to enhance growth.

The selected children did not include those who had a hereditary tendency to shortness of height. This purposeful exclusion was made in order to better evaluate the effects of the hormone.

A particular male sex hormone was chosen in order to reverse the pattern of retarded growth. Exact measurements of height and weight were combined with regular studies by X-rays of the wrists and hands before, during and after the trial period.

Encouraging Results The results were exceedingly encouraging and were recently reported at the American Academy of Pediatrics.

All over America, many scientific projects are actively being pursued for the physical, psychological and social rehabilitation of the severely asthmatic child.

While Dr. Coleman cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Foreign Sparks—The State of New Mexico has a $5 million mortgage on the SS Manhattan—under a law permitting the state to invest in private enterprises. This mortgage is in default, and New Mexico has decided to dispose of it—if and when it can.

Last spring, the Manhattan transported a large grain shipment to Poland. This also was a give-away under Public Law 480, being "sold" to the Soviet satellite for its own currency. The U.S. now has $486 million in Polish zlotys. This is the largest amount of so-called counterpart funds of all U.S. aid beneficiaries. Second largest is India, with $321 million in counterpart funds. These huge sums can only be used in those countries and are of no help to the U.S. in coping with its increasingly serious balance of payments deficit problem.

Markin Time On cloudy days be glad and sing. Behind the clouds the sun is shining.

And yet that will not mean a thing. Unless we seek the silver lining.

Luther Markin

Arthritis-Rheumatism Unit Plans Registration Drive

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation will hold a registration drive in connection with its annual fund raising campaign.

Carroll All, county campaign director, said the week of Sept. 16 will be used to raise $4,000 for the local chapter and to register any person who lives in Monroe County and suffers from either disease.

All arthritics are requested to stay at home at least one night during the drive so they may be reached by volunteers.

Those registered during the campaign will be placed on the chapter's mailing list and kept informed of the latest developments in the fight against arthritis.

The registration will also be used by the chapter's service personnel in reaching patients in need of physical therapy, drugs, appliances and self-help devices.

State Tops Again In Retraining

WILKES-BARRE — Wilkes-Barre district office of the State Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation said Pennsylvania rehabilitated more of its citizens than any other state for the second successive year.

Monroe County is one of 11 counties served by the district office in Wilkes-Barre.

The Wilkes-Barre office rehabilitated 15 percent of the 10,577 disabled persons placed in jobs throughout the state last year.

Tom E. Williams, office administrator said, "Each rehabilitation means one handicapped or disabled citizen properly prepared for and placed in gainful occupation through one or more of the Bureau's services."

"To continue this high level of service to our handicapped citizens it is important that the public be fully aware of the services of the bureau that are available and will continue to be available through the Wilkes-Barre district office," added Williams.

If we make the best of little opportunities, we find ourselves more able to accept larger ones.

Courtright At Pittsburgh

EAST STROUDSBURG — A recent East Stroudsburg Joint High School graduate will enter the University of Pittsburgh this fall.

He is D. H. Courtright of RD 1, East Stroudsburg. He started his freshman studies at Pitt Sept. 3.

The 1,100 freshmen enrolled on the Pitt campus will study under the trimester calendar. Students are able to finish their undergraduate work in two and two thirds years under the trimester plan.

Deadline for registering to vote in the Nov. 5 municipal election is Monday, Sept. 16. If you are 21, a citizen of the United States for one month, a resident of Pennsylvania one year, a resident of your election district 60 days, you are eligible to register and vote. Register today at the county courthouse commissioners' office.

ON DUTY—Lt. Donald Hauser USN, son of Mrs. George Hauser of Delaware Water Gap and the late Mr. Hauser, reads his orders at a recent change of command at Fort Monroe, Va. Hauser, a veteran of 23 years in the Navy, is shown relieving Lt. C. L. Murphy as officer in charge at the Naval Ordnance Test Facility. Hauser resides with his wife and son at 1641 Tallwood St., Norfolk, Va.

$6,804 Aid For Aged In County

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — The State Department of Public Welfare in July distributed $6,804 to care for Monroe countians over 65 under the Kerr-Mills medical-aid-to-the-aged program.

Of the $6,804, a total of $5,054 came under the Medical Assistance for the Aged program and $1,750 under the Old Age Assistance (relief) program. Medical assistance payments were made for 35 countians during the month. The department did not list the number receiving care under the Old Age Assistance program.

Five applications for medical assistance for aged residents of Monroe County were filed during July. In addition seven applications were pending at the beginning of the month. The department authorized four payments and denied two others, leaving six applications pending at the beginning of August.

During the past fiscal year ending June 30, payments totaling $50,241 have been authorized for Monroe Countians — $31,415 under the Medical Assistance for the Aged program and $18,826 under the Old Age Assistance program.

Management Conference In Poconos

POCONO MANOR — The ninth annual management conference of the Pennsylvania Credit Union League at Pocono Manor, Friday and Saturday, September 6-7, will bring together 225 credit union officials from all parts of the state. It is designed especially for representatives of credit unions now employing or contemplating employing full-time personnel.

Speakers and session leaders will include both credit union officials and people from related fields. They are: Thomas Heffter, Public Relations Department, Credit Union National Association; J. D. Kennedy, Treasurer, Jacksonville Utilities Emp. Federal Credit Union, Florida; William Salzer, President, and Peter DiSylvestro, Assistant Treasurer, Olmsted Federal Credit Union; John McCullough, Manager, Local 169, I.B.T.W.H. of A. Federal Credit Union; Joseph Hinchey, Manager, Bell Telephone Emp. Federal Credit Union; Leon A. Wagner, Cuna Mutual Insurance Society; Walter Weiss, Atlantic Refining Co.; and Walter Dickerson, Amott, Baker Company.

Among the subjects for consideration will be advertising, financial counseling, insurance, banks and credit unions, public relations, credit union investments and record keeping.

The conference is one of many services offered by the Pennsylvania Credit Union League to the 1,140 member and 95 non-member credit unions in the State. In addition, the League offers assistance to civic, social, educational, fraternal, governmental, religious, business, and industrial groups interested in organizing credit unions within the framework of their own personnel.

Depot Safe Driver Honored

TOBYHANNA — Tobyhanna Army Depot presented its second 10-year $115 safe-driving award. It went to Paul Kester of 1 Prescott Place, Scranton, a truck driver in the Motor Pool.

Kester was given a certificate of achievement "in recognition of his outstanding performance of duty and expert maintenance of Government motor vehicles" from June 1, 1953, the day he was hired, to the present.

120,000 Non-Accident Miles

During the 10-year period he recorded more than 120,000 no-accident miles on Army buses, sedans, trucks and tractor-trailers.

The citation further credits him with displaying "excellent attentiveness to all rules of highway safety on and off the installation," and for "demonstrating a high regard for mankind, especially while driving under abnormal road and traffic conditions."

Kester was born in Scranton and attended St. Paul's Parochial School. He is a four-year infantry veteran of World War II.

State Municipal Authorities Parley Slated For Tamiment

TAMIMENT — The 21st annual conference of the Pennsylvania Municipal Authorities Association will be held Sept. 8-11 at Tamiment.

The conference will feature meetings planned to further exchange information between authority members and will cover a wide range of subjects.

Winston K. Pendleton, newspaperman and public relations consultant of Washington, D.C., will be the featured speaker on Sept. 10.

Secretary of Internal Affairs, Genevieve Blatt, will present the 1963 annual report awards to authorities selected by a panel of judges sponsored by the Pennsylvania.

I. S. Sahli will present awards named in his honor and given to persons with 20 years of service to municipal authorities.

Northeastern Plans New Bank Merger

HAZLETON — Northeastern Pennsylvania National Bank and Traders Bank and Trust Co., both of Hazleton, will merge in the near future, according to officials of both organizations.

Frank E. Hemelright, president of the N.P.N.B. and John H. Bonin, Traders president, announced that the board of directors of both organizations agreed on a transfer of 35,000 shares of common stock of the Traders Bank with 28,000 shares of National common stock.

Traders' assets as of June 30, 1963 were $12,343,671. National's statement of the same period showed assets of $174,790,556.

National operates nine banking offices in Monroe, Lackawanna and Luzerne Counties.

River Basin Session Set For Oct. 21-22

PHILADELPHIA — The Delaware River Basin Commission and the WRA-DRE will hold a "Delaware Water Resources Conference" on Oct. 21 and 22. The conference will be held at the Pocono Manor Inn.

The conference will review the commission's first full year of operation and will examine its projected plans and programs.

Those planning to attend the conference have been asked to make reservations directly to Pocono Manor Inn.

A meeting of the WRA-DRE's board of directors will be held in conjunction with the conference. Board members will be informed of the exact time and date no later than Sept. 15.

Accident Settlement Awarded

EASTON — A Northampton County board of arbitrators awarded William J. Feigley, of Stroudsburg, RD 3, $548.76 in a lawsuit against Mrs. Emma E. Fackenthal, of Bethlehem, RD 2.

The suit resulted from an accident Feb. 13, 1962, on Route 512 involving cars driven by Feigley's wife, Margaret, and Mrs. Fackenthal.

Feigley sought damages for repairs to his car. In a counter-suit initiated by Mrs. Fackenthal's husband, Gordon, against Mrs. Feigley, the board ruled in favor of Mrs. Feigley.

Pleasant Valley Junior To Vie For Miss Pocono

EFFORT — Miss Sandra Jean Frable, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Frable of Effort, will compete for the Junior Miss Pocono Mountains title on Friday, Sept. 27, in the auditorium of Pocono Mountain Joint High School at Swiftwater.

A junior at Pleasant Valley High School, she will present a jazz dance to the Elephant Walk by Henry Mancini as her three-minute talent routine. She is a student of Shirley Braganti of Stroudsburg and a part-time dance instructor.

Single girls 14 to 17 desiring to enter the Junior Miss contest should write to Box 28, Buck Hill Falls. Two black and white wallet-size head and shoulders photos are required with the entry and are not returnable.

Deadline for entries is Sept. 10.

The Junior Miss Pocono Mountains competition is being held for the first time this year as part of the ninth annual Miss Pocono Mountains pageant, directed by Mrs. Robert A. Miller of Stroudsburg, founder of the pageant.

Cohen To Attend CPA Conference

STROUDSBURG — J. L. Cohen, CPA, of 200 N. 5th St., in Stroudsburg will attend the 9th annual accounting study conference at Pennsylvania State University.

The four-day conference will be held from Sept. 4 to 7 and is jointly sponsored by the University and the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

WISHING WELL

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Critic Criticizes Audience

MOUNTAINHOME — The guys and dolls who attended the Tuesday's Poono Playhouse production of "Guys and Dolls" should have stayed at home with a book. They could have sat on their hands there as well as pay for tickets to do it in the theater.

The audience didn't wake up until the last three numbers of the play and then they seemed to realize that Norwood Smith and his costars were onstage and the play had begun, and was tops into the bargain.

At the risk of being misunderstood, the play and stars were not at fault. Smith in the part of Sky Masterson has his own particular chemistry and a well-schooled voice. He does not lack stage presence to any degree either. Awareness of himself and the potential of the part was in evidence even if the audience missed it.

Smith is a penetrating baritone. More important, this performance was as fresh and exciting as a first time around for a man who has created the role more than 87 times in summer theaters after an impressive run on Broadway.

Tim Herbert as Nathan Detroit was fine. He has a mobile face that manages to express far more than words. The two together give a zip to the part at which the word "enjoyable" only hints.

Another point about Herbert, is that his ability may have begun in vaudeville, but it certainly didn't end with that occupation. He doesn't pretend to have the voice of Smith. However he puts emphasis into the part which is only surpassed by Frank Sinatra.

Anne Lang as the long-engaged Miss Adelaide is nothing short of gorgeous. Platinum blonde hair, a figure for modeling bathing suits (which she has done) and a sweet clear voice endear her to the listeners. She also dances, if there is time to notice since she is a stunner.

Renée Orrin's Sarah Brown is a bit wide-eyed, but that's the only exception to her performance. She misses being a sweet, young thing only because of an extra dose of eye shadow. She has a warm voice and is well suited to the part with evidence given in her duet with Smith. "I'll Know."

Mugs With Best Cynthia Latham pops up pompous and formidable as General Matilda B. Cartwright. For all her pomposity, she can mug with the best of them and manages to cop a few prize laughs in the production.

Oggie Small as the drastically overweight Nicely-Nicely Johnson has his moment in the limelight during a late scene in the musical which leads one to believe that he had been underestimated. He seemed to be a slow starter in coming across the footlights Tuesday night, but when he arrived, you couldn't miss him.

A pair of pop-eyes and an eloquent facial expression for Edwin Bruce's Benny Southstreet carries along its own chuckles. Another perfect piece of casting is Anthony Gardell as Harry the Horse, loud suits, loud voice and cigar stuck in the corner of his mouth. Gardell looks as if he just got in from Brooklyn.

Charles Reynolds plays Lt. Brannigan who is constantly heckling Detroit, Masterson and the rest of the members indulging in the pursuit of the "largest floating crap game in New York." He is officious and honest.

Members of the student workshop turned in pleasing performances. In a couple of the dance numbers, they were more than pleasing. Along with Holly Vinson of the workshop, Linda Erwin, a local talent played a "Doll." And they were.

Big Jule, Low Herbert's interpretation, was funny and got funnier as the musical proceeded. He reached his zenith in the same scene with Oggie Small. They were in league to bring down the house by the ball occurring on-stage.

Reproduced By Bates Damon Runyon's Broadway was reproduced faithfully by Jack Bates' settings. A bit of midnight-old-burning was well worth it. Past sets may have filled the bill, but the only thing these sets didn't do was have speaking parts. With Ray Caton's excellent lighting, the sets fairly sang or at least echoed the melodies done so well by the cast.

A Broadway backdrop and a night club setting with bits of paper, materials, paint and imaginative nonsense brought the much-touted tinsel and glamor of Big Town right out on the stage.

Bobby Barry as Arvide Abernathy is convincing as Sarah Brown's grandfather and his solo, "More I Can't Wish You" is well done.

Somewhere in the cast, (although not easily definable) is a positively statuesque beauty who should be painted if she hasn't.

CORE Leader Found Guilty

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, was convicted yesterday on two counts of disturbing the peace in a racial demonstration Aug. 19.

Mayor Charles Schebelen, acting as chief magistrate of the municipal court in this racially troubled south Louisiana town, sentenced Farmer to 60 days in jail or a $200 fine.

Attorneys for Farmer promptly filed notice of appeal.

been already. She has a few lines with Sarah at one point in the play and is electrifying when she doffs her "Save-A-Soul Mission" garb to double in brass as a night club girl.

To discuss the musical itself would be guiding the lily. When Abe Burrows and Jo Swerling wrote the book and Frank Loesser did the words and music, they had a sure fire winner. It hasn't changed a bit. It still is.

Richard Hughes did a good job of directing a hard show. He manages to get cast members to do double duty and enjoy it. Duncan Noble's choreography is outstanding, particularly in the crap game sequence. For music, Robert Procter and Leslie Harnley play twin pianos backed up by Jerry Jacobosky on percussion.

It is a wonderful production well done, enjoyable and much fun. It is a pity the audience

Tuesday night missed it. But they will have a chance to attend again during the two-week presentation which rounds out Rowena Stevens' 17th summer in Mountainhome. It is to be hoped that on a second attendance they do not sit on their hands. The cast deserves a better response and reception than they received Tuesday night!

STAR FURNITURE

... Just As You Would Your Old Car!

Q. Can I come in to pick out the new furniture I want before you send an appraiser to my home?

A. OF COURSE! You are always welcome to visit Star Furniture (and if you haven't shopped Star recently—you're in for an eye-opening treat) after you have made your selections we will arrange for our appraiser to call at your home.

Q. May I trade-in any furniture I own on any purchase of New Furniture or Appliances?

A. YES! For example you can trade your old bedroom suite on a new living room suite—trade your dinette set on a bedroom suite or trade a chair or table on a new stove, etc.

Q. If you guarantee your prices are no higher than anyone within 100 miles, How can you afford Trade-In Allowances?

A. You know what happens to your old car when you Trade it in—That's exactly what happens to your old furniture and appliances. We plan to recondition them and resell them in our Trade-In Department.

Effort Man Appointed To Farmers Unit

ALLENTOWN — Arlington W. Martin of Effort, has been appointed as a committeeman for the Carbon, Monroe and Pike Area in the Farmers Home Administration, Allentown. The announcement was made by Frank Orendo, county supervisor of the agency.

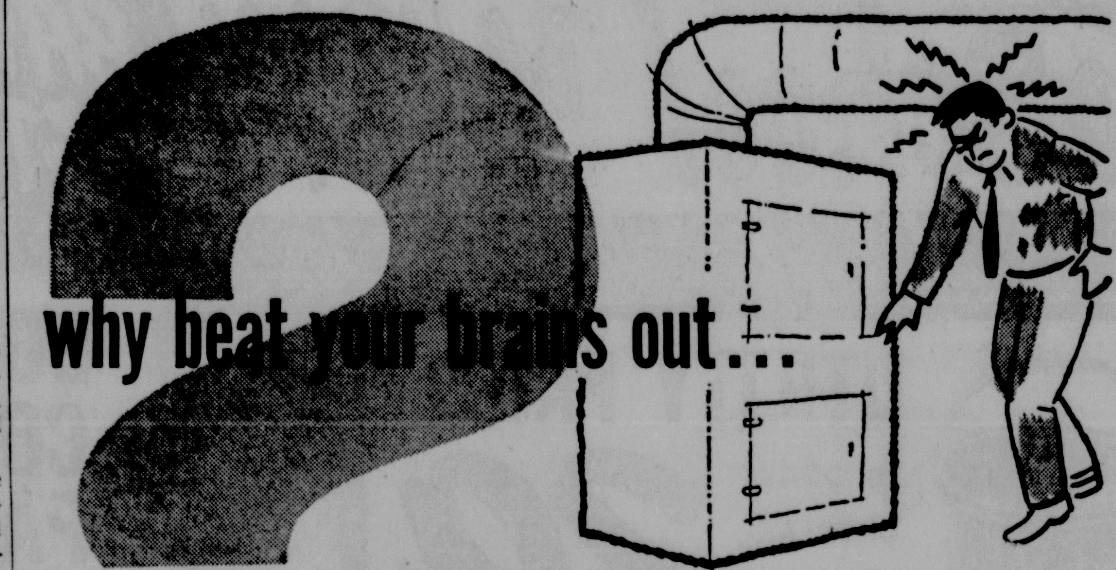

Martin owns and operates a large dairy farm of approximately 60 cows plus replacements. He previously served on the Farmers Home Administration Committee. He also taught as a Vocational Agricultural Supervisor and after World War II was an instructor for the On-the-Farm training of veterans. At the present time he is also serving as Secretary for the Monroe Dairy Coop. and active in many other community and civic projects.

Orendo said the committee determine the eligibility of all applicants for Farmers Home Administration loans and assist him in adapting the loan policies and services to local conditions.

Rural housing loans are made to eligible farm owners and owners of nonfarm tracts in rural areas and small rural communities with populations of not more than 2,500. Loans are made for construction and repair of needed homes and essential farm buildings.

Supervised credit helps farm families improve their farms and homes, increase their incomes and make their full contribution to the economic growth of their communities. The development of better rural housing, rural community water systems and rural community recreation facilities contribute to the growth of rural communities.

Most of the loans made by the Farmers Home Administration are made to farmers who carry on farming operations on a scale

Monroe's Corn Harvest $293,500

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Monroe County farmers last year harvested a total of 3100 acres of corn valued at $293,500, crop production figures of the State Department of Agriculture for the county indicated today.

Of the 3100 acres of corn harvested in the county in 1962, records of the department show that 1700 acres were harvested for grain and 1400 acres for silage.

The average yield per acre for corn harvested for grain was 62 bushels — as compared with the statewide average of 56 bushels per acre. Corn harvested for silage rounded out to 10.8 tons per acre which was above the statewide average of 10 tons per acre.

Gilbert Man Wins Awards For Hay Crop

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa. — The hay entry of Ira Altomose of Gilbert, won the heat dried championship at the Northeastern Pennsylvania district hay show recently. He won a total of three first places in 12 classes.

This year's show, held in Tunkhannock, Pa., was in two sections, one of field cured hay and the other heat cured hay.

Mr. Altomose's sons, Larry and William also won a first prize in the field cured section.

George Berggren, extension agronomist at Pennsylvania State University judged the show.

All first, second and third place winners will be entitled to a free chemical feed analysis of the hay exhibited.

Winners of the first three places in each class will be eligible to exhibit in the same class or classes at the 1964 Pennsylvania Farm Show next January in Harrisburg.

On the wheat production front, Monroe County farmers last year harvested 24,699 bushels from 1100 acres with an average yield of 22.4 bushels per acre — 5.6 bushels per acre below the average for the state as a whole. The wheat farmers of the county produced was valued at $48,700.

Oats production in the county last year rounded out to 99,000 bushels, valued at $79,400, harvested from 3300 acres. The yield of 31 bushels per acre was below the statewide average of 42.5 bushels.

Barley Output
Barley production stood at 300 bushels valued at $300 from a crop planted on ten acres, the department said in rounding out the grain production picture for the county.

On the hay production front — the yield per acre rounded out to 0.81 tons as opposed to the statewide average of 1.22 tons per acre. Total hay produced amounted to 5300 tons with a value of $192,000.

As to the type of hay grown in Monroe County: Clover, timothy and mixtures of clover and grasses were by far the most popular with some 4300 of the 6400 acres seeded in these types. This resulted in production of 3400 tons.

Alfalfa hay was planted on 1500 acres within the county for a production of 1500 tons and "all other hay" accounted for the remaining 600 acres — with a production of 300 tons. (Other hay includes grains, soybeans, wild, millet, sudan, orchard grass, etc.)

Deadline for registering to vote in the Nov. 5 municipal election is Monday, Sept. 16. If you are 21, a citizen of the United States for one month, a resident of Pennsylvania one year, a resident of your election district 60 days, you are eligible to register and vote. Register today at the county courthouse commissioners' office.

Small Investments

By William A. Doyle
Q. I have been told that it is possible to invest as little as $40 a month in stocks. I realize that many people of moderate means invest in stocks. But $40 a month, as an investment, seems mighty small. Can this be true?

A. Certainly. What you have been told about, no doubt, is the "Monthly Investment Plan" (MIP, for short). Through MIP it is possible to make steady investments of as little as $40 a month, or $40 every three months, in almost any of the stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

You can get all the details on MIP from any brokerage firm which is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. The exchange has been pushing MIP for years.

Actually MIP is not the only method (and certainly not the original method) through which investors can make steady purchases of securities in small amounts.

It was predicated by the "Quincy Plan," through which many thousands of people make steady investments in high-quality stocks.

There are any number of steady investment plans available. Don't overlook the fact that many mutual funds have "accumulation plans" available, through which it is possible to make steady investments of small amounts of money.

Q. I sometimes laugh at your column, because you favor mutual funds so much. You have mentioned the "load charge" that people get hit with when they buy mutual fund shares. But why don't you tell your readers that the "management" people who run the mutual funds get another bite each year—sometimes running to 35 percent of each fund's total income?

A. I honestly feel that all aspects of mutual funds are aired here. From some letters, complaining that I've been "picking on the funds" because this letter has spelled out the facts of life, I thought that I might have been getting a bit rough.

But your letter and some others in the same tone sort of prove that this battered old typewriter has found a happy medium.

This column keeps repeating that all costs of every mutual fund are spelled out in the prospectus of that mutual fund. Anyone interested in a mutual fund should

Cowell Estate Is Appraised

PORTLAND — According to the papers filed in Northampton County Court at Easton, the estate of Mrs. William (Mary) Cowell, widow of William Cowell of Portland who died May 31, 1963, has been appraised at $313,954 by the state inheritance tax appraisers.

The estate is comprised of $42,750 in real estate and $271,204 in personal property.

Included in the personal property is more than $60,000 held in a safe deposit box in a bank and more than $35,000 in savings accounts held in four banks. Also, included is 723 shares of common stock of the Portland National Bank valued at $21,630 and 619 shares of common stock of the Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co. valued at $18,570.

The remainder of the personal property is comprised mostly of other stocks and United States Treasury and Foreign bonds.

According to the terms of the will, the estate is divided between 32 relatives, 11 persons other than relatives and thirteen charities.

read the prospectus. I repeat, READ THE PROSPECTUS.

Honestly, however, you seem to be picking on a point without really knowing what you are complaining about.

Naturally, it costs money to manage any mutual fund. The management people must be paid. They want to make money. That's why they are in business.

If the investment aim of a particular mutual fund is to provide income to its shareholders, you're right in mentioning its management expenses as a percentage of the fund's total income.

But very few funds with that investment aim have "expense ratios" anywhere nearly as high as you cite.

A more realistic way of judging a fund's annual expenses is in relation to the total assets of the funds.

On that basis, most funds have expense ratios well below one percent.

For instance, let us say a mutual fund has total assets of $100 million and that its total expenses for the year (including management fees and all other costs) come to $600,000. That works out to an expense ratio of 6/10ths of one percent.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

MORE than half a million veterans visit the Veterans Administration's outpatient clinics each month for medical care.

Hoagland Named Bank Director

PORTLAND — Herbert S. Hoagland, cashier of the Portland National Bank, Portland, Pa., was elected a director at a recent meeting of the board.

He has been with the bank since 1937 and will fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Walter E. Emery.

At the same time, Olin E. Cramer was elected to the presidency, a post formerly held by Emery. Robert Hamill was elected secretary of the board. Cramer had held that position.

Hoagland is a graduate of Penn Arty High School and of Churchman's Business College at Easton. He had been with the Portland Sand and Gravel Company before moving to the bank. With his wife, the former Miss Nancy Oxford of North Bangor, he lives on Old Creek Road, Mt. Bethel.

They have three children: Mark, 4, Lisa, 2, and Kathryn, 1.

Davis Nominated As U. S. Judge

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy nominated former Lt. Gov. John Morgan Davis of Pennsylvania yesterday to be U. S. judge for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

If his nomination is confirmed by the Senate, Davis will succeed the late Judge Thomas C. Egan on the court, which is located in Philadelphia.

THE Veterans Administration disburses 170,000 burial flags annually.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Some people are just contrary; others are, by nature, just out of step with the times. I never consciously head the wrong way on a one-way street, but I very often find myself bucking the one-way reactions of the majority of people.

For instance, with most people engrossed in the opening of Intercontinental Route 80 and its dedication tomorrow, I find myself traveling on the old Route 611 over Foxtown and thinking about its history, past, present, and future.

Anybody who was trapped in South Stroudsburg during the construction of the mid-town section of the Thruway has very vivid memories of when Foxtown Hill carried the burden of traffic. Instead of St. Bernard's we sent out water trucks for the overheated radiators steaming during their snail's pace journey, bumper to bumper, on even a moderately busy weekend.

The tinkle of glass and the rattle of masonry heralded the bi-weekly crashes as cars failed to round the curve on Park Ave., and landed in the much-restored stone wall. The first faint glaze of ice and snow, and trucks and cars, adding sideways, formed a rick-rack pattern of stalled traffic on the hill.

That's why there's such a ghost-town feeling about traveling the road to the river these days, sometimes without passing a single car in either direction. As a matter of fact at the height of the Labor Day home-bound traffic on the Thruway, I rounded the approach to Foxtown Hill to find a fawn placidly grazing on the grass plot with not even a horn or parking light to disturb its solitude.

It's almost as quiet as I remember it as a dirt road, with the trolley to Delaware Water Gap snaking its wriggling way along side. Even before that Luke Broadhead described it among the carriage drives of 1870!

"At one of the depressions in Fox Hill, the carriage could pass to Stroudsburg. Near the summit of the road, a portion of Cherry Valley is seen to the left, hemmed in with mountains. The creek seems in no hurry to find an outlet for it makes an irregular circuit and returns to within a few rods of the place it left, forming a considerable peninsula, resembling an exaggerated foot member called The Giant's Foot."

"On the west side of Fox Hill, is another valley of equal beauty, encircled with mountains and hills, the most distant and very prominent is a spur of the Pocono which stands out like a grand monument. The town of Stroudsburg, of about 2,000 inhabitants, is pleasantly situated in the lower portion of the valley."

Nobody within recent years could pause to enjoy the view of either Stroudsburg or the Giants Foot without imminent danger of tying up traffic for 20 miles. Now, however, maybe the trees which obscure the view on both sides could be cut down, and we'd have us another scenic drive for horseless carriages. Maybe somebody might even recreate the Trouley Park where so many Sunday school classes held their picnics.

But maybe I'd better hold my peace, and the fawn and I can share our own private highway.

Fall Schedule Adopted By St. Pauls Teachers

Craigs Meadow — Decisions about six important coming events were made by the teachers and officers of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday School at their meeting Tuesday night.

The Harvest Home service will be held Sept. 8 at 11 a.m. when the Children's Choir will sing. A bake sale will be held Friday, Sept. 20, with the time and place to be announced.

The Rally Day program will be held Oct. 13 at 9:45 with presentation of promotion certificates and the showing of a film. A mitten tree will be placed in the Sunday School for the collection of mittens and gloves for the needy.

An amateur show will be held under the direction of Raymond LaBar and Gail Smith, with the definite date to be decided later.

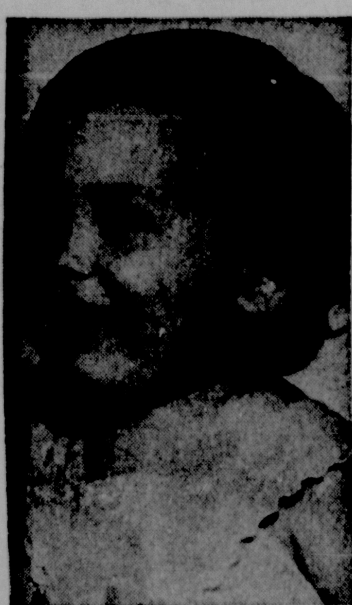

Fruit cakes and Christmas candy will be placed on sale at the end of September.

The teachers extended their thanks to Raymond LaBar who donated two signs advertising St. John's along the highway. The next meeting will be held Sept. 24 at the church.

Present were Mrs. Aaron Smith, Raymond LaBar, Mrs. Herbert Bates, Mrs. Samuel Little, Mrs. Richard Davies, Stanley Smith, Miss Gail Smith and Mrs. Doris Heeter.

"THE GREAT IMPERSONATOR" — Teal Traina's title for a Fall 1963 costume of a white dress and fake baby calf coat with Mongolian goat collar. The low-belted two-ply wool jersey dress is long-sleeved, and has a rolled neckline.

Lawn Party For First Birthday

A first birthday party was held in honor of Deborah Lynn Bentzoni, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Bentzoni, 112 South Eighth St., Stroudsburg, on the lawn of her home on Aug. 21.

After a period of play, refreshments were served with the cake and other decorations in the clown motif.

Those present were Mrs. Betty Frailey and daughters, Sarah and Shirley; Mrs. Shirley Van Dine and children, Vickie and Ricky; Mrs. Barbara Bamford and daughter, Diana and Nancy; Mrs. Nora Jane Clunso and daughter, Terry; Susan Kulp and son, Bobby; Joyce Pope and sons, Philip and Robert; Mrs. Bessie O'Neil, her grandmothers; Mrs. Shirley Bentzoni and sons, Ricky, and Mrs. Evelyn Kresge.

Special Services Scheduled For Mount Zion

Rev. Juddie Payton of Mount Hope, West Virginia, will be the speaker at the special services being held at Mount Zion Interdenominational Church. Rev. William Haffling, pastor, announced that services will be held Sept. 6 to 15 at 7:30 o'clock and also at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday.

Music will be provided by the church orchestra and there will be special songs by the Peyton family, accompanied by Ruth Haffling, pianist.

The public is invited to attend any or all services.

Gideons Tuesday

The Gideons of the Stroudsburgs will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Readers Hall, Readers.

Home Cooking For Business People Shrewd Home Idea

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
"What can you do when you have no talent for anything and are desperate to make some money at home?" writes a reader.

Actually, the answer to this one can be as varied as a woman wants to make it! But one answer we always think of is a woman in a suburban community who solved this problem with a home service for which she now has a waiting line.

All Her Own
The service? A self-created job at home serving dinners at reasonable weekly fees to business people living alone who would have to cook and eat by themselves to get home-cooked, family-style dinners at night.

"When I first started to look around for something to do in my own home I couldn't think of a thing," the woman told us when we went to ask her how she started. "The only things I knew how to do were cooking and keeping house."

Loved To Cook
"But I did love to cook and my family always told me I made the best apple butter and hot biscuits in town," she added with a twinkle. "So I decided to concentrate on what I could do best and find a way to use it at a profit."

For this particular woman, concentrating on what she could do best and finding a way to use it at a profit meant keeping her eyes and ears alert for several weeks or so.

Aware Of Need
Then, as she did this, she became more and more aware of the business people living alone who occasionally mentioned in conversation how much they hated to go home from work to cook and eat alone. At the same time, though, she'd hear them say how they got tired — and often broke — from eating too many meals out.

"This kind of conversation was the birth of my idea," the woman said, "so I decided to work out a way to accommodate, in addition to my family, ten business people for the five working nights a week."

"To serve them dinners at a reasonable price I made up my mind I'd serve them the regular meals I'd be cooking for my family anyhow and merely accent the family meals with things like hot biscuits and apple butter."

Consulted Accountant
Because the woman knew she wasn't experienced in business, she consulted a local accountant almost as soon as she got the idea.

From him she learned to figure out, in a business-like manner, what her expenses for dinners would run to. Then she learned how to add to this payment a charge for her service and accommodations and establish a correct weekly fee.

Began To Advertise
"When all the details were figured out and I knew the right way to manage I advertised my Five - Nights - A - Week - Home-Cooked - Meals - For - Business."

A group of local people attended the day-long homecoming services at the Christian Church at Avoy, near Lake Ariel, on Sunday.

There were 91 present, most of whom were related by blood or marriage to the late Samuel Swingle, pioneer founder of the church. Following morning worship service, a luncheon was served in the church hall, followed by a report of the Swingle family historian, readings and music by trios, quartets and community singing.

Included in the homecoming activities were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Swingle of Stroudsburg and their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Swingle and three children of Phillipsburg, N. J., a sister, Mrs. Ma Mae Chadfield of Stroud Twp.; another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wiley.

"And now I have my waiting list as well as a way to make money at home and all because I found the way to concentrate on what I could do best and use it at a profit."

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

JOTS AND DASHES

(from Wyckoff's, right out of my Cotton Pickin' Mind)

What's this I hear about a chimpanzee making a monkey out of all the professional ice skaters in the new IceCapades at Madison Square Garden? The New York critics say he's cute as a button, and actually leers at his human colleagues who just can't leap over as many barrels as he. He really must be something, for he's competing with such talent as Bavarian Champion Doris Winter, Ice Comic Hans Leiter (a riot, they say, as Cleopatra) and scores of others including Romyne and Steele, Cathy Machado, Brigitte (NOT Bardot), the Jelineks, Alan Konrad, Doug Austin, The Bruises, and others.

If you would like to see the IceCapades during its New York stay, plan to make the trip with our Travel Bureau's excursion on Saturday, September 14th, the day before it closes and moves on. Call Edna Brockman of our Wyckoff Travel Bureau, or her assistant, Virginia Ludgate, for further information.

A few weeks ago I fell heir to a partially used tube of Helena Rubinstein's Coverfluid makeup. Since I very rarely use creams or a makeup base, I had never tried this and did so only because my nose was so red from hayfever. I needed something to "tone" me down. Prior to this my only contact with makeup bases of liquid type were at evening fashion shows when powder and other cosmetics look blah and thin beneath the lights. On such occasions I wear a rather heavy, thick base that is flattering but decidedly hard to blend.

To make a long story short, I really like Cover Fluid, and in the bright sunlight of an outdoor picnic, it won me compliments. What more can a woman ask? The shade I was wearing was Peche Rose, if I recall correctly, but there are numerous other colors blended to just about every conceivable skin tone.

Now Helena Rubinstein has introduced still another liquid makeup. This is Silk Fashion... it comes in a bottle and is a bit heavier than Cover Fluid, I'm told, but is still very easy to apply. This makeup will moisturize the skin while it covers the flaws, and it will provide an attractive finish that will last for hours.

Clever women, we are told, will use TWO shades... a lighter shade on the cheekbones blending into a darker shade on the cheeks, to enhance facial contours. Silk Fashion is recommended particularly for women with dry and normal skins. Shades available are Peach-bloom, Ivory Rachel, Mauresque, Rose Peach, Cracker-jack, Soft Beige, Golden Beige, and Bronze. Each is priced at 1.75.

Hard Work, Quick Learning Needed For Cavalier Team

By KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor
EAST STROUDSBURG — A "lot of hard work and quick learning" are the ingredients needed for the success this year of the East Stroudsburg High School Cavaliers, according to head coach Jack Kist.

The dean of the Lehigh-Northampton Football League has only two starters from last year's squad returning — and no more than a total of four lettermen on the 1963 team.

That's like trying to cook a beef stew with no meat!
Fullback Mike Ajiyin and guard Bob Corby, both seniors, are the two starters of last year's squad. The other two lettermen are center Ron Spinner and quarterback Doug Hilyard, both of whom also are seniors.

Kist and his assistants will not be blessed with the advantage of such a huge line this season. The big boys—Bud Stann (250 pounds), Hank Harris (230), and Alan Schell (220) — have left the E-burg premises.
Earl Palmer, regarded by Kist as one of the finest ends in the L-N circuit, also has left the Cavalier fold along with ends Pete Maaser and Ross Gordon. Other linemen who leave big shoes to be filled are John Rohner, Eric Miller and Mike Boushell.

In the backfield, quarterback Jack Van Horn and halfbacks Jimmy Steele and John Mosher are gone along with defensive halfback Dick Deiter.
Nobody on this year's squad can tip the scales at the 200-mark. Last year, there were three of them — Stann, Harris and Schell.

Smaller Line

Heaviest of the linemen is junior end Bob LaBar who weighs 190. Nobody else goes over 168. This year's squad will average 165 pounds while the Cavalier line of a year ago went 20 pounds heavier than that.
"With this team," says Kist, "we have to hope for quickness and aggressiveness."

The new faces in this year's squad will be Doug Hilyard and Monte Perfetti at quarterback; Joe MacIntire and Bob Ladgate (a converted end) at halfback with sophomore John Bertucci expected to see some action. "He's looking pretty good," says Kist.
In the line, Spinner is expected to assume the center post. Corby, Randy Heller and Dave Eilenberger are the top prospects at guards along with Steve Quick, Allen Shukaitis, Ralph Litts, Mickey Long and John Kintner are vying for the tackle positions. At the ends, juniors LaBar and Tad Janusz are the top prospects along with junior Dave Luttrell.

Pro-Type Attack

Offensively, Kist plans to operate much the same way as last year with the exception of using the pro-type formation a little more. "We're going to try to open up the defense a little bit," explains Kist. "We'll use it more this year to get a little more running room."
And, he adds: "With a lot of hard work and quick learning we expect to give our opponents a good go of it."

Jurgensen, Hill Quit Eagles Camp

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, one of pro football's star passers, and his understudy, King Hill, both walked out of the Philadelphia Eagles training camp Wednesday in a salary dispute.
Club President Frank McNamee said the players left without notice to the coaches or any club officials.

Neither Jurgensen nor Hill has signed a 1963 contract although they are bound to the club under the option clause in National Football League contracts.

In National Tennis Championships

Froehling Upsets Roy Emerson

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Frank Froehling III of Coral Gables, Fla., tennis's gangling stepchild, smashed his way back into America's Davis Cup picture Wednesday with a stunning 6-4, 4-6, 7-6, 6-2 triumph over second-seeded Roy Emerson in the fourth round of the national championships.

He served with such blazing power that Emerson repeatedly missed the ball completely or barely got his racket on it. The Australian shook his head in disbelief.
Emerson — the Australian and French champion — broke three Cup and tournament seeding committees this year although he is ranked No. 2 nationally, literally blasted the tough Queenslander off the court.

Blazing Power
Before the match Froehling, 21, said he planned to play his heart out for a victory in order to get out of the tennis dog-house.
"They don't like me because I was a cut-up as a kid, but that's all past now," he said.
Froehling's victory erased the last of the Australians in the men's field, making it the first time since 1950 that the tennis-minded continent at the bottom of the world hasn't had a player in the quarter-finals.

Australia has had a monopoly on the U.S. men's title since 1955. The towering Floridian was joined in the men's quarter-finals by three U.S. Davis Cup team members, Chuck McKinley, Dennis Ralston and Martin Riessen; Mexico's cat-like Rafael Osuna and a pair of giant-killers from Brazil, Ronnie Barnes and Thomas Koch.

The defeat of third-seeded Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the Wimbledon runner-up, and a narrow squeak for second-seeded Darlene Hard featured the fourth round in the women's division.
Miss Moffitt, never reaching the form she showed in England, faded badly after winning the first set and lost to Deirdre Cati, a tiny Englishwoman, 2-6, 8-6, 7-5.
The 26-year-old Miss Hard lost the first five games and fought off one match point in the third before finally beating Judy Tegart of Australia 3-6, 6-3, 10-8.

Giants Crush Houston; Orioles Edge Cleveland

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Orlando Cepeda's three-run homer featured a six-run San Francisco rally in the fifth inning as the Giants came from behind to defeat the Houston Colts 8-3 Wednesday.
Willie McCovey also homered, his 35th of the season, in support of right-hander Jack Sanford's 14th victory.

'Everybody Was Tired'

Mays: No One To Blame For Labor Day Collapse

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays, the $100,000-a-year centerfielder of the San Francisco Giants, said Wednesday he blamed nobody on the National League club because he was kept in the lineup day after day until forced out by exhaustion on Labor Day.

"I believe everybody in the organization knows I don't blame them," Mays told The Associated Press by telephone from his home where he is resting.

At Candlestick Park after Wednesday's 8-3 win over the Houston Colts—the third straight game Mays has missed completely since his dizzy spell—Giants Manager Alvin Dark commented:
"I had to play him as long as I could and this year it is tougher than ever. We had only 23 players. Everybody had to play and everybody was tired."

Limited Bench
Dark referred to the fact the Giants carried two bonus pitchers on their roster of 25, limiting the club's bench strength.

Rugged Workout

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Coach Buddy Parker pushed his Pittsburgh Steelers through a rugged workout Wednesday with emphasis on offensive maneuvers.
The Steelers play their final exhibition contest against the Cleveland Browns in Canton Sunday.

Yankees Win On Rog HR

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris came through with a two-run home run, his 20th of the season, in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the New York Yankees a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over the last place Washington Senators Wednesday.

Washington southpaw Claude Osteen, supported by a home run barrage at the expense of young Jim Bouton, was within three outs of recording his ninth victory, second against the Yankees, as he faced the league leaders in the ninth.

Osteen, who had allowed only seven hits up to that point, walked the first batter, Elston Howard. Maris, hitless in three times at bat, took a strike then slammed the next pitch into the lower right field stands to turn defeat into victory for the Yankees.

100,000th Game In Washington

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—To Washington, D.C., the nation's capital, will go the honor Friday of playing host to the 100,000th major league baseball game.

Washington's opponents will be the Cleveland Indians who, like the Senators, have been members of the American League since its inception as a big league in 1901.

Significantly, a team representing Cleveland played in the first big league game 92 years ago.

This intriguing discovery was made at the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum in Cooperstown, N.Y., and called to the attention of Commissioner Ford Fick Wednesday.

Started in 1871

A compilation of all games played by all teams with major league status going back to 1871 determined that after Thursday's games, the majors will have played 99,995 games, barring postponements.

With a full night's schedule on tap Friday, the decision as to where the 100,000th game will be played narrowed down to cities in the eastern section of the country because of the time element.

Moving Rose Bushes

By George Abrahami
Transplanting Roses: Quite often the home gardener will want to move an established rose from one spot to another. When's the best time for this chore?

Seasoned gardeners can do the job almost any time of the year, but for the amateur, perhaps the best advice is either in fall or spring, when the plant is more or less dormant.

The first thing to do is cut the bush back to about 18 inches. Next, try digging the plant with as much soil as possible clinging to the roots. Soaking the plant a day ahead of time helps soil stick to the roots.

Set the newly dug plant in a hole deep enough to accommodate the roots, without winding them around each other. Extra long roots, or damaged ones can be severed to facilitate planting.

Trump the soil firmly around the base of the plant, then water well. Always leave a slight depression so that it will catch water. Never mound a plant with soil as this sheds the water. It's a good idea to keep the rose watered once or twice a week after transplanting.

You can move old climbers the same way, cutting them back so you can handle them better. Perhaps the first year it's safest to run the canes on the ground and drilled two wells and struck no cover with straw. Next spring cut back any canes which have winterkilled.

Coming next week: What's the latest thinking on winter protection of roses? Don't miss it in our Green Thumb column.

Water Dowsers: We have scads of letters from our readers concerning water dowsing, the art of locating water underground by means of a forked stick. Last week we printed one letter in favor of water - witching, as it's called.

This week we print the following and let you draw your own conclusions:

"People who believe in ghosts believe in water dowsers. It's a poor dowsing who can't locate water. If dowsers were of any value they'd be registered as reputable business people. I'm a well driller and I can locate water if a dowsing can and I don't use a forked stick. P.T. Barnum was right. There's one born every minute and I don't see why you waste your time in your column."

Green Thumb note: Everyone has a right to believe what he wants. We tried to be fair and print both sides of the water witching controversy, even though we're skeptical about its effectiveness.

The topic came up when a reader said it cost him $200 for dowsing services and the only water he got was sweat. Since then, another reader wrote to tell us it cost him $1500 for a dowsing who Missing Buds: I've been asked what eats the buds out of carnation plants. Some villain won't touch the flowers but will feast on the tender buds. Give up?

There are two animals we've watched do this: rabbits and squirrels. These rodents are especially fond of carnation buds and will go to great lengths to make a meal out of them in no time flat. Usually the rabbits will work at night, especially if there is a lot of activity during the day, but squirrels will do their work during the day.

Control: A wire fence will keep out rabbits, but is no problem for squirrels. We find that mothballs do a fine job repelling both animals, since they cannot tolerate the strong odor. Just scatter them around the plants.

We mentioned recently that a reader placed 1 tablespoon in a quart of time and scattered this around the plants. It did a good job repelling the animals. Bloodmeal is another material used for warding off animals. Usually any item with a strong odor will keep the pests away.

Poinsettia: This is a reminder to bring your poinsettia indoors before frost hits. From September on, the poinsettia is extremely sensitive to light and darkness.

In other words, if the day is lengthened by extra light, such as you get from a street light nearby, or artificial light indoors, this delays flowering. From now it needs a shorter day and longer night for flower bud formation and flowering at Christmas. So your job is to limit the plant's day to about 10 hours and put it to bed for the rest of the night. You do this by covering the poinsettia with a black cloth, starting at 5 p.m., and remove the cloth at 8 p.m. the next day. If you don't want to use cloth, move the plant to a dark hall each night at five, but make sure it gets a uniform supply of water that no light gets to the plant.

A dimly lit hall will not be dark enough.

Best temperature indoors from now is in the 60 degree range. High room temperatures will cause leaves to drop, and a lack of sun will cause them to turn yellow.

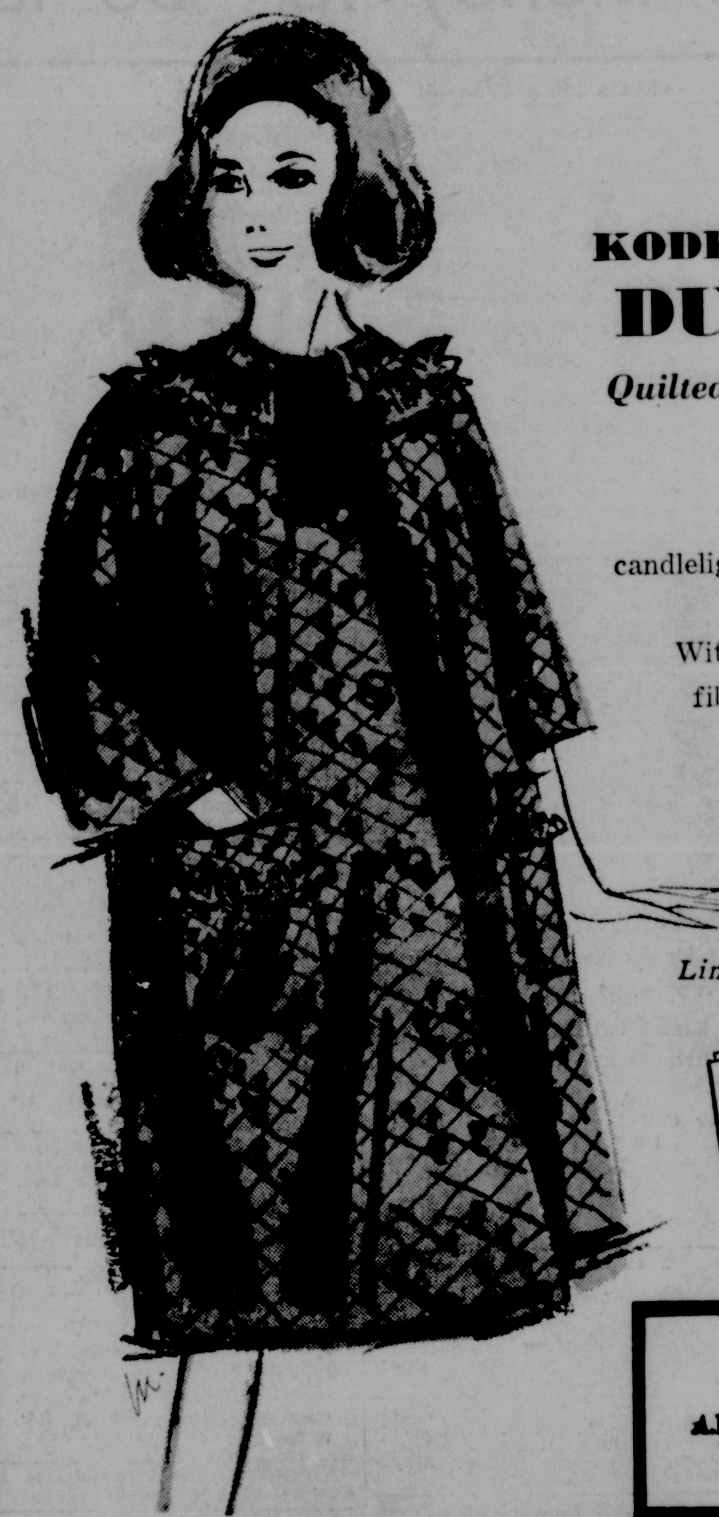

This item needs full sun indoors if it's to flower. And make sure it gets a uniform supply of water at all times.

Question Box

Question Of The Week: C.N. of Stroudsburg: "I have a plot of ground about 1500 sq. ft., used for growing flowers and vegetables. I am able to get an unlimited supply of coffee grounds. Would it do any harm if I applied these to the soil? How thick should they be and when would you apply them?"

Coffee grounds are fine for both sandy and clayey soils. While low in nutrients (about 2 per cent nitrogen), they do have great humus value. Drip grounds are richer than grounds which have been boiled. They are slightly acid and thus may be used for blueberries, rhododendrons and other acid-loving plants.

You can also add them to your compost pile, or even place some in earthworm boxes, as some fishermen do. Use them as thickly as you wish since you cannot overdo it. Keep in mind that while the grounds are a good source of nutrients you should also supplement them with a balanced plant food.

G. J. of Tafton: Last year my sunflowers mildewed and rotted while the seeds were still in the head. I have a nice crop of them and want to feed the birds in winter, but want to prevent the mold from forming. What's the best way?

First, pick them when the outer rows of seed are ripe. Birds will give you this clue by picking the outer rows first. Cut the heads off, with a foot of stem or stalk attached. Then tie the stalks together and hang the heads in an airy spot.

We find that if an electric fan is played on the heads while drying you can remove the moisture and prevent mildew. After heads are thoroughly dry you can rub the seeds out light and store in airtight containers. Sunflower seeds are highly nutritious, being rich in protein, calcium, niacin and thiamin.

I'd like to hear from readers who have special tricks for preparing sunflower seeds for food. Please write and tell me your secrets.

F.B. of Wilson: "Regarding your notes on trimming tomatoes, I'd like to say that gardeners are divided on this topic. For years I've pruned and staked tomatoes and with success. My neighbor never trims or stakes them and he too has wonderful results. My staked and pruned tomatoes look better than his, which are left to ramble over a straw mulch. It all depends on what you want to do. Tomatoes are easy to grow, pruned or unpruned, although I must admit that the staked tomatoes have more cracks in them. The mulched tomatoes have more small injury and don't color up as well."
